Harold P. Jackson, student in Dartmouth, has a clever short story in the March number of the Dartmouth magazine, a periodical devoted to the literary interests of Dartmouth undergraduates entitled "A Scowp" which tells of this first newspaper experiment of a "scowp" reporter which turns out to be a dream. The writer uses the name of J. C. Yates. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. G. Jackson of East State street.

Financial papers announced this week that the Capital Savings bank & Trust Co., has been awarded $70,000 short time bonds of Gardner, Mass., in anticipation of taxes due in October and November. The bonds are 4 per cent, and a $25 premium. There were five other bidders and the lowest came within $11 of the Capital's bid. The bank adopted this short time loan idea about a year ago and found it very handy during the recent financial depression.

DARING RESCUE OF WOMAN IN NEW YORK FIRE.

Mrs. Charles Lindley Passed from Burning Building by Husband to Arms of a Man in Adjoining House.

New York, April 17.—Mrs. Charles A. Lindley, daughter of former Police Commissioner Francis V. Green, was rescued early yesterday by her husband from their burning house in the heart of the diamond-back district at 55 East Fifty-fifth street, a four-story brownstone dwelling, midway between Fifth and Park avenues, not far from the St. Regis hotel.

The Lindleys slept in the front room on the second floor, while the three servants were on the top floor. It was 1 o'clock when Mr. Lindley was awakened by a muffled explosion which blew the door of his bedroom from its hinges. An instant later there was a rush of flame and smoke from the hallway. Although the engines responded quickly to an alarm given by a passer, the Lindleys were in deadly peril before they arrived.

The lower part of the house was all ablaze and escape from the story windows was impossible. Mr. Lindley took his fainting wife in his arms and dashed up to the third floor through choking clouds of smoke.

Groping his way into the front room he crawled out on the narrow stone coping with his wife, then unconscious, in his arms.

Clinging with one hand to the frame of the window and gripping his wife with the other, he crept along the narrow coping. One false move would have cost two lives.

W. F. T. Prentice, a Wall street broker, occupies the third-story rooms at No. 53—next door on the Lindley home. Reaching far out, he took Mrs. Lindley from her husband's arms and drew her into safety through the window into his own room. Mr. Lindley, exhausted by the nervous strain and physical exertion, managed to follow.

The three servants were rescued on scaling ladders by firemen.

Emerson Shoe
HONEST ALL THROUGH

It is a big statement to make—"Honest all through," but it's true. For every Emerson Shoe is made from only the best materials adapted to its particular model. For dress wear you will find our patent leather to be the least liable to crack or peel off of any shiny leather made. Then it costs us more to use Rock Oak soles but we would rather have a man buy a pair of Emersons and come back for another, than just buy the one pair.

Just drop in and we will be glad to show you why Emersons are "Honest all through" whether you buy or not.
